Visitors Are Amazed at Display Collected For Celebration — Historical Pageant Tonight

Home Coming Day guests began to gather early today for the feature
events of the Rush county Centennial celebration.

By noon the city was thronged
with visitors, most of whom were new
arrivals for Rush county's one hundredth birthday anniversary party.

The day's program opened with a band concert at ten o'clock by the Knights' Home band.

Albert J. Beveridge, the speaker of the day, arrived this morning and
was entertained by a group of Rush-
ville men at lunch at the Scanlan
hotel.

The historical, industrial and fraternal parade was to move promptly at 1:30 o'clock, lead by the Rushville police force, mounted, and followed by the Rushville band and the Rushville fire department, displaying the different types of equipment
which have been used in Rushville
for fire fighting.

Several reunions were in progress
this morning in various rooms at the court house, and many people who
had not seen each other for years
were meeting, shaking hands and recalling things that happened years
ago.

The Noble township frog pond
school was holding a meeting in the
commissioners room on the second floor of the court house, and the Posey township Frog Pond school
was having their reunion in the assembly room.

The McMann school of Jackson
township met in the sheriff's office
while the descendants of William B.
Laughlin, a few in number, were gathered in the rest room of the library.

The school reunions were indulged
in by the former students, and several of the old-time teachers were with
them to reminisce.

While these reunions were being
held there were many old time settlers from outside of the county
shaking hands with each other on the street. One man, who now resides in Madison county, and left
here 40 years ago, had not seen any-
one he knew, but as the day went on,
he expected to meet many of his old
time acquaintances.

The historical division was to be
led by a band of men dressed as Indians and followed by floats representing the various townships. The Arlington band was to lead fraternal
section which will consist of floats
entered by lodges and of members
marching. The last division was to consist of industrial floats representing both manufacturing institu-

Home Coming Guests

The following Home Coming Day guests, former residents of the celebration, have registered in the court house:

establishments. This division will be led by the Orphans' home band.

The parade will end at the coliseum in the city park, where there will
be another band concert by the Orphans' Home band and an address
by Mr. Beveridge.

The county's birthday cake will be
sliced at four o'clock at the Ford
building in West First street, where
the relics are on display and will be served to the Home Coming Day
guests.

The celebration will close with a
historical pageant at the coliseum
this evening at 7:15.

A large crowd was in attendance
at Wednesday evening's program
when the Indianapolis News' News-
boys' band gave a concert from the
platform in the court house yard and
the Rushville Community orchestra
appeared in a concert at the relics
building.

The exhibit of relics held the center of attention. Centennial visitors
have been amazed at the astonishing
number of old-fashioned articles
which have been collected both for
the main display and for the store
window displays.

Ed Blackledge of Kokomo, who together with Mrs. Blackledge, happened to be going through Rushville
Wednesday afternoon, was surprised
to find the crowd of people in Rush-
ville and remained to inquire what
was taking place.

Mr. and Mrs. Blackledge were persuaded to remain over night and attend the Centennial today. After a survey of the relics, they said that they could not imagine there were so many things harking back to the old days, as have been collected for this event.

The Kokomo people had been in Madison where an exhibit of relics
was being made, and they stated
that it did not compare in any way
with the display being made here.

An interesting relic was added to
the Noble township display this morning. It is a grammar tree approximately 100 years old and that
was used in the early days to teach grammar. It is the property of
Thomas Helman of Noble township

FORTY BAKERS ATTEND MEETING

Guests Represent Zones 12 and 13
of the Indiana Bakers

BAKERS OF FOUR COUNTIES

A. W. Wilkinson Welcomes Visitors
and Exhibits County 500-Pound Birthday Cake

About forty bakers and others affiliated with the baking industry, were here Wednesday night attending a banquet given by A. W. Wilkinson,
local baker, the visitors representing zones 12 and 13 of the Indiana Bakers' Association.

The meeting was held at the Scan-
lan Hotel, where a three course
chicken dinner was served, which
was followed with speeches by several distinguished guests, who spoke
on matters relative to the baking
interests.

Besides Decatur, Shelby, Fayette
and Rush counties, which comprise
the two zones, there were many other
visitors here from Indianapolis.

Elmer Cline of Indianapolis, representing the Taggart Baking Company, delivered an address, taking
the place of A. L. Taggart who was unable to attend, and Eugene Quigg
of the Richmond Baking Company,
also was on the program for an address. Mr. Wilkinson welcomed the visitors here in a short address,
and he also displayed to the visiting
bakers the 500 pound fruit cake
which he baked for the Rush County
Centennial, and which will be cut
this afternoon and served to the visitors. The bakers commented upon the mammoth cake and stated it
was indeed a piece of art.

C. R. Russ, general manager for the Fleischman Yeast Company, also spoke, and several representatives
from trades affiliated with the baking
industry were present and spoke to
the bakers.

Those who were here and attended
the banquet were: S. C. Considine,
M. M. Elwovmer, Will Stevens; S. J.
Bence, P. A. Bessin L. H. Wilson, C.
P. Ehlers, Elmer Cline, R. T. Kelley,
John S. Clark, C. R. Russ and H.
Jaeger, all of Indianapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Passwater,

LEADERS DRAWN FROM RURAL HOMES

In Times of Strife, America Seeks Men From Communities Like This,

MAKES CENTENNIAL ADDRESS

Declares Need of Day is Wholesale
Reawakening in Public Affairs
by Men And Women.

Fred VanNuys, a native of this
county, and now a prominent attorney in Indianapolis, having recently
retired as district attorney for Indiana, came back home to mingle
with former friends, and to deliver
an inspiring address Wednesday
afternoon at the Rush county centennial, bringing out forcibly the fact
that from such homes as there are
in Rush county, America seeks men
to guide her in times of strife and
need.

"I am glad to come to Rushville
and to Rush county this afternoon,"
Mr. VanNuys said in the beginning,
after being introduced by Samuel
L. Trabue, "and to participate in
the distinguished occasion of this celebration."

Mr. VanNuys' address following
the announcement of the awards in
the Centennial historical essay contest for the school children of the county. The names of the winners
and the subjects on which they wrote
have been announced previously in
the Daily Republican. The awards
were read by W. E. Wagoner, county
chairman of the committee in charge
of the contest.

The afternoon program closed with
a concert by the Indianapolis News'
Newsboys' band, on the platform
in the court house yard.

He reminded the audience that he
was a native of this county, and
that he was born on the hill in Fal-
mouth, and jokingly stated that no
one knew there was a hill in Fal-
mouth excepting the older people,
who will recall it.

Following his address, it was clearly to be seen that he hailed from that neighborhood, because he was busily
engaged with renewing old acquaintances, many of whom he had not
seen for 40 years, and he promised
the townspeople that he would pay
them a visit this summer, and "see
all the boys and girls."

Winning Paper In Centennial Historical Essay Contest

"The First Settlement of Noble Township" Subject
Used by Miss Thelma Williams Who Was Awarded First Prize of $10.00.

"The First Settlement of Noble Township" was the topic of the winning paper in the county historical
essay contest, which was written by Miss Thelma Williams of New Salem
and won for her the first prize of $10. The paper was as follows:

Isaac Williams, the first settler of Noble Township, was born in the Cumberland mountains, June 6th, 1785. About the year 1808 he was married to Margaret Ann Arnold, and
an humble but happy home was established. To this union were born
two children, Nancy, afterward Mrs.
Nancy Heaton, and William.

In 1813 Mr. Williams decided to change his home and his star of
destiny led him to Franklin Co., Ind.,
where they spent a few years near Laurel.

In 1819 they again decided to change their home and moved to Noble Township where they established a permanent home one mile
north of New Salem's present site.

When they migrated from their
early Tennessee home, they, with
their children and meagre belongings,

Sends Her Regrets

Mrs. Willona Stockham Parsons of New Orleans, formerly Miss Willona Stockham of this city, wired Judge Will M.
Sparks, Wednesday evening,
her regrets at not being able to attend the Centennial celebration. Mrs. Stockham visited
old friends here a few months
ago while touring in a special
car with her husband, who is a
railroad vice-president and general manager. The message
says:

"Congratulations and best wishes to all attending this wonderful reunion. My heart and thoughts are back to the childhood days spent among
you. My one regret is that I
can not attend."

LABOR IS READY TO SUPPORT LAFOLLETTE

Unless Sentiment Changes, American Federation of Labor Will

ASSAILED AS ANARCHY

(By United Press)

Ohio National Guard Armory, Cincinnati, Ohio, June 15.—American
labor leaders are ready to accept
and actively support Senator LaFollette's program giving congress the veto power over the courts.

Unless a decided change in sentiment occurs meantime, it is probable
the American Federation of Labor
convention here will formally approve the LaFollette program next Wednesday.

In supporting LaFollette's suggestions, labor leaders today said they
realized that the congressional veto
was a revolutionary step, with unlimited possibilities. They predicted
that it would be denounced as a blow
at the constitution and the stability
of the American democracy.

These predictions were immediately borne out. The Cincinnati Enquirer, owned by John R. McLean, in this morning's edition, assailed the LaFollette plan editorially as "anarchy" and said that were the proposal not "rebellious" it would be ridiculous.

Two Hours Later

Husband Arrives Too Late to Pre-
3½ Miles Northwest of Here

Mrs. Martha David, age 52 years,
wife of Dora David, residing 3½ miles
northwest of Rushville, was fatally
burned late Wednesday afternoon,
and a large building on the farm
destroyed, when gasoline exploded
inside the building while she was
spraying the place for chicken lice.

The accident happened about four o'clock in the afternoon and the
victim lived two hours and was conscious until a short time before she
died, and suffered intense pain.

The building in which the explosion
occurred was used for a granary,
poultry house and garage. In the
poultry section a chicken brooder
was equipped with a gas heater, and Mrs. David turned out the gas, but
a small spark of fire is believed to
have remained in the mixer.

She was spraying the walls with gasoline to kill the chicken lice and
when the room became filled with the
fumes, it is believed that the small
gas flame set off the explosion, which
fired the building immediately, and
set Mrs. David's clothing on fire.

Mr. David was working in a field
nearby and heard the explosion, and
saw his wife running out of the
building in flames, and when he reached her, the clothing was burned off her body.

Other neighbors heard the report
and came to their assistance and
fought the flames with water. A
call was sent to the local fire department and Firemen Moffitt and West, in charge of the chemical truck, reached the scene in 7 minutes.

Another building used as a pump-
ing station was saved with the
chemicals, and by saving this building it prevented the flames from
reaching a large barn and the dwelling. The firemen used 50 gallons
of chemicals.

The loss was placed from $800 to $1,000, which is partially covered
by insurance. An automobile in the building was saved by the neighbors.

Physicians who were called to attend Mrs. David, did not have any
hope for her recovery because of the seriousness of her burns and she
expired about six o'clock.

The funeral services for the victim will be held Friday afternoon at
two o'clock at the Main Street Christian church, Rushville, in charge of
the Rev. C. S. Lewis of Bedford,
Ind., and interment will be made in East Hill cemetery. The husband and

FINDS FOR PLAINTIFF

The jury which heard the case of Elmer Brook against Alva Newsom in Justice Stech's court here Wednesday, found for the plaintiff, and awarded him $77.75 judgment and costs in the case, which was a suit on an account. The case was sent here from Carthage on a change of venue, from the township. The costs in the case amounted to $29.35 in addition to the judgment rendered by the jury.

Kidney and Bladder Troubles HAVE TO GO

Clogged up Kidney Deposits Are Dissolved and the Toxins (Poisons) Completely Driven Out. Druggists Told to Guarantee it in Every Instance.

"Your very life," says Dr. Carey, "depends upon the perfect functioning and health of your kidneys so whatever you do don't neglect them."

Dr. Carey's famous prescription No. 777 (Liquid or Tablets) is not recommended for everything, but we cannot too strongly urge its use if you suffer from annoying bladder troubles, frequent passing of water night and day, with smarting or irritation, brick dust sediment or highly colored urine, bloating irritability with loss of flesh, backache, rheumatism or any other tendency to Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Gravel, for kidney disease in its worst form may be stealing upon you.

Don't wait until tomorrow to begin the use of this wonderful prescription if you have any of the above symptoms. Kidney and Bladder troubles don't wear away. They will grow upon you slowly, stealthily and with unfailing certainty.

Never mind the failures of the past if you even suspect that you are subject to kidney disease; don't lose a single day for every good druggist has been authorized to return the purchase money on the first bottle to all who state they have received no benefit.

The speaker assailed the tactics used in the legislature in Massachusetts, when the late William A. Ketchum, former Commander of the G. A. R., was rebuffed for attempting to have them agree with him that the hope of this country rested upon "One Country, one language and one flag." The legislature, forty in number, passed a resolution denouncing his idea, as expressed to them at their assembly.

He continued to bring out the different types of people which compose the inhabitants of our land, and he criticized the attitude of these Massachusetts lawmakers, and jokingly remarked that "if Jim Watson, or any other Indiana statesman who wanted to write his name higher in the hall of fame, could soon do so, if he would have congress move Plymouth Rock to Rush county, where the people will cling to the masterpiece idea, One Country, one language and one flag."

"What we need today," Mr. Vanuxem continued, "is a wholesale reawakening in public affairs by men and women. And in the fact that we have suffrage today, do we see one of the hopeful signs of relief."

"You know that about the only time that some men used to take their wives up town was to sign a deed, or see the creek when it had overflowed its banks," the speaker continued.

"We have a new era today. Women are voting now and in that fact, may we hope for some renewed interest in public and civic affairs. The women of this country are awake and are reading and taking an interest in political affairs and within a short time may we hope for a reawakened public spirit."

"As I said in the beginning, it is a pleasure to come here and to speak briefly to the good, old substantial citizenship of Rush county."

"A time never existed in our country when a movement or a leader was necessary to bring about needed reforms but what that movement and that leader were forth coming."

"Out in the backwoods of Illinois there lived a plain and humble man, who had surveyed the forests of his state with a grapevine in lieu of a surveyor's chain, and read the history of his country by the light of the back log."

"But out of the lips of that man, came the edict—'This nation can never exist half slave and half free,' and call it Destiny, call it Fate, call it God—call it what you will—Abraham Lincoln was raised to the position where he struck the shackles from the bodies and souls of thousands of black men and women."

"We have serious problems to solve today."

"We need leadership and co-operation upon the part of the best men and women of the country—and by the same tokens which have distinguished us in the past—that leadership and that co-operation will be forthcoming."

"History will verify the truthfulness of the statement that whenever a leader was needed in the field of battle, whenever men were needed for the trenches, whenever domestic entanglements have arisen and men were needed to entangle the skeins and to lead our people back again into the proper ways of thinking and living—America has gone to the farms and the small towns to find these leaders."

"It has seldom found them in the congested districts of the big cities."

"It has seldom found them in the glare of the electric light or amid the intoxicating strands of the jazz band. It went to the good old-fashioned homes of America where the good, old-fashioned mothers and fathers taught their sons and daughters proper thinking and proper living."

"It went to these homes where the boys and girls were taught to do an honest day's work for an honest day's pay and to pay an honest day's wage for an honest day's work."

"It went to these homes where the blood was kept pure and clean and where the traditions and the history and the wholesome ideals of America were taught as religion is taught and were in truth and in fact a part of religion."

"It went to the home where the good old-fashioned mothers and fathers taught their children to pay their debts and to fear God and love their country—and let the future take care of itself."

"These parents so taught and the children understood and obeyed and all the diseased and festering ambitions of tyrants abroad and all the criticism and sniping of disloyalists

at home has not been able to rock the foundations of American character or American institutions in the least jot or tittle."

"We rejoice and are exceedingly glad this afternoon that we have all been privileged to be born in or to live in communities like dear old Rush County."

"It is out of communities like these that America has found her leaders and her substantial citizens and has been able to build for herself a distinguished place among the nations of the world."

In explaining, Wednesday afternoon, how the bronze memorial tablet had been conceived in 1914 and steps which had been taken to bring it about, Mrs. Sarah Guffin, chairman of the D. A. R. committee which arranged for the tablet, spoke as follows:

"The Daughters of the American Revolution of the Rushville Chapter, have been looking forward to this happy day, with a great deal of pleasure since April 16, 1914."

"At a regular meeting of our chapter held on that date at the home of Miss Laura Meredith, a paper was read on 'Rush County History' by the late Mrs. Mary M. Alexander. After having heard the excellent paper a member present proposed that the paper be published in pamphlet form and sold; and during the discussion which followed, it was decided to use the money thus derived, as a basis for a fund to be used to erect a tablet, to the memory of all the Revolutionary soldiers, buried in Rush county."

"This culminated in the chapter publishing a book on Rush county history, written by Mrs. Mary A. Alexander in 1915. Great credit should be given her for her effort and untiring work, which she so willingly did, to make the book a success. As chairman of this book committee, I want to thank the business men of Rushville for their financial help by giving us their small advertisements for this book, which will add greatly to its value in later years. Many of you have a copy of this book in your home and the Daughters will gladly supply any others with a copy."

"Nothing else was done in a financial way for this tablet, the remainder of the money being free-will offerings by the Daughters."

"The late Mrs. Frank Jones was chairman of the tablet committee until in January of this year when she resigned on account of ill health, at which time I was appointed."

"The tablet was not ordered until May 10 and we must give great credit to the firm of Paul E. Cabaret of New York for rushing through the order for us, that we might be able to make it a part of our Centennial celebration."

"The Daughters of the Rushville Chapter have a right to be proud of this tablet, as it gives to Rush county, a part of our history, which had never before been compiled."

"It is a very great honor to our county, that we have buried within our borders so many Revolutionary soldiers. We have the names of 22 on our tablet, and less than a week ago learned of another, that of John Runyon, buried in Flatrock cemetery. Our chapter will continue to hunt for others who may be buried in Rush county."

"It is our desire that government markers and Revolutionary flagholders, be on each of their graves."

"I want to thank the members who served with me on this committee for their good work, which has enabled our Chapter to have our tablet ready for today. I thank you."

The members of the memorial tablet committee, in addition to Mrs. Guffin, are: Mrs. H. V. Logan, regent, Mrs. Will Dill, Mrs. Jabez Winship, Mrs. Jesse Logan, and Mrs. Leila Gilbert.

A MODERN ENOCH

Muncie, Ind., June 15.—The story of a modern Enoch Arden was related in court Wednesday. It was contained in a suit for annulment by Mrs. Arlie Mann of her marriage a year ago to Orlan Mann.

The action was taken because her first husband Timothy Maloney, whom she thought was dead, returned last Sunday very much alive. He had gone to Missouri three years ago to work and a year later she read an account of his death in a union magazine. Regarding herself a widow she married the following year to Orlan Mann and lived happily until her first love returned.

BETTER AFTER OPERATION

Mrs. H. C. Sexton, wife of Dr. H. C. Sexton, a Shelbyville dentist, who was taken suddenly and seriously ill last Sunday and was removed to the Dr. Sexton hospital here, is reported to be improved following an operation for acute, gangrenous appendicitis.

placed on these, from one end of the building to the other, on which the board roof was placed. Other logs were laid on the boards to hold them in place while wooden braces held them apart.

The floor was made from large logs split in two, and made smooth with a broad-axe. They were called puncheons and were laid on log sills.

The doors were made from long boards fastened to long wooden hinges with wooden pins, and hung on a wooden pivot. A piece cut in the side wall, covered with greased paper, made the window.

For a fireplace an opening was cut out at one end of the cabin several feet wide and the chimney was built on the outside. A heavy framework of slabs was fastened to the cabin and mortar and large rocks placed inside of it five feet high. The upper part of it was finished with square sticks and mortar. A crane was fastened in one of the side walls of the fire place on which their scanty cooking utensils were hung over the fire.

Iron skillets and oven, with short iron legs, and lids of the same material, were used for cooking on the hearth by placing live coals under and over them. Pies were made on a table, carried on the hands and laid, and cooked, in skillet, as they had no pie pans.

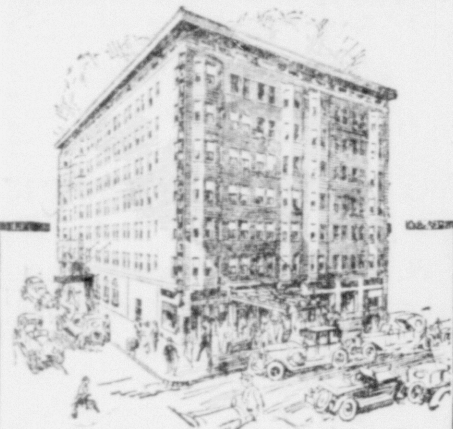

The dishes were made of pewter, and required much scouring to keep them bright and clean.

The hunter's rifle was always laid on two forked sticks over the door, ready for use if game of any kind appeared.

The women often assisted the men with their work, kept house, picked, carded, spun and colored the wool, then wove the wool and flax into cloth and made it into garments and other household needs. They planted and cultivated the garden, gathered medicinal herbs, prescribed and cared for the sick. The washing was done on the hands. All the sewing was done by hand.

All was not toil and hardship for these people, for they had their amusements along with their troubles. They had corn huskings, wood-choppings, quilting bees, and singing schools, where fun and innocent pastimes were enjoyed. Sometimes there was a dance, but it was the stately minuet, cotillion, or Virginia reel. The old Williams cabin is still standing, a part of an old barn on the Andrew Guffin farm, which is now occupied by M. O. Sefton.

Mr. Williams died Sept. 6, 1853, followed by his wife Sept. 15, 1871.

Planting the Bourne Monument

SUMMER SCHOOL STARTS JUNE 15

Indications Now Are For Largest Enrollment Ever Obtained At The Purdue University

Credit Will Be Given On A University Degree For The Work Taken During The Summer.

Lafayette, Ind., June 15.—The annual summer school at Purdue University will start Thursday June 15, with enrollment coming that day and classes starting the following morning. Indications now are for the largest summer school enrollment ever obtained here and with the 33 instructors, regular members of the Purdue staff retained, there will be ample provision for all who come, Dean George L. Roberts states.

The summer school sessions were resumed two years ago after being stopped several years on account of the war. The enrollment then was 45. Last year it was 172 and judging from the large number of inquiries from teachers and high school graduates of this year, it will go considerably above this figure this year.

Courses will be offered in all lines of agriculture, home economics, trades and industries, education, academic topics including chemistry, biology, English history, mathematics etc. Physical education also will offer an opportunity for the men to learn coaching methods employed by Purdue, and the women who are preparing to teach also can get some of this work. In addition to this a conference of vocational agricultural teachers will be held the first ten days of the summer school period starting June 15 and ending June 24.

Credit will be given on a university degree for the work taken during the summer, and many will take advantage of the summer work in order to finish their work for graduation.

MOSQUITOES ARE PLENTIFUL

Warsaw Commissioner Attempts To Kill Pests In Lowlands With Oil

Warsaw, Ind., June 15.—Mosquitoes have become so thick in Warsaw and Kosciusko county this spring that for the first time in the history of this city the common council has instructed the street commissioner to purchase a quantity of oil to be placed on the lowlands north of the city with a view of killing off the pests.

Night automobile parties traveling through Kosciusko county in recent weeks have reported that they were attacked by swarms of thousands of mosquitoes and that life for them was made almost unbearable until they were able to reach towns, where the pests were less prevalent.

Movies Replace "Drunk Cures"

By Carl Victor Little. (U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, June 15—Movie films today replaced the "cure" for inebriety. Irate wives, wanting their husbands to view themselves as others do, now call the cameraman to shoot a few reels of the head of the house as he "weaves" home after the cocktail hour.

"We get several calls each week from wives who want their husbands put on the celluloid," said Watterston R. Rochacker, movie producer, today.

"Just before the husband—a bit worse for wear—is 'poured' from a taxi, the wife puts in a rush order for a cameraman.

"A Close-up is taken as he unsteadily moves up the cement stairs. Then he is snapped trying to prove to his wife he hasn't had a drink. He sinks into the softest chair, another close up.

"The fade-out is taken when he stretches out in bed, fully dressed from shoes to hat."

Then, said the producer, on some cold gray dawn several days afterward, a sheet is placed against the wall, and the flickering serio-comic drama, is shown.

"It either cures him—or he goes out and gets drunk again to forget how he looked," said Rothacker. Some wives, he said, furnish music with their movies.

A blank record is put on as the husband is filmed when he returns home. This is turned on while the film flickers before him.

"Tis quite embarrassing," said Rothacker, "for a husband to hear himself speak as follows while viewing himself as a film 'star.'"

"Blah, blatto, blah, blah, blatto."

FEW FARMERS DELINQUENT

Warsaw, Ind., June 15.—The financial condition of farmers of Kosciusko county is improving, according to County Treasurer Edward Poulson, who bases his assertion on the fact that tax collections from persons living in the rural district of the county were better this spring than in many years. Comparatively few farm land taxes went delinquent this spring.

Widest Open Bathing

By CARL VICTOR LITTLE

Chicago, June 15.—Discovered: The widest open bathing suit town in America. It's Winetka.

Waino Peterson, chief of police, who wears his star on a bright yellow bathing suit, has an eye for beauty. And furthermore, he's proud of it.

"Come on to Winetka, girls, the lid's off," said the chief today. "Throw your bathing skirts to the wind. Just as long as you wear trunks, everything's all right."

"There's no reformers following you around with a tape measure as long as I run this she-girl's town. Let your home training and your beauty be your guide."

"If you must wear stockings, all

The liberal chief, however, has drawn one line. "I hated to do'er," he apologized.

He decreed that "there would be no dressing and undressing on the beaches." He explained this by saying that the 25¢ entrance fee to the bath houses would go to waste if this rule wasn't enforced. On to Winetka!

AN UNLIMITED SUPPLY:—
If ye abide in Me, and My words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you.
—John 15: 7.

The First Hundred Years

The observance of Rush county's
one hundredth birthday will end tonight with a pageant that will review
the history of the county during the first one hundred years.

No one can justly say that Rush
county people of the present generation did not do it well.

In a substantial and reverential
way, they let the world know that
they appreciated the labor of love
performed by those who went before
—the pioneers, the strong people of the effort and who pushed their way
westward to cut out of the wilderness a home for themselves and their descendants yet unborn.

Nothing served more to impress
the people who attended the centennial celebration, than the exhibit of relics, which indelibly stamped on their minds the hardships which their
forebears endured that we might enjoy the blessings which we have today.

Centennial visitors saw the crude
implements which they had in use in
their everyday tasks, when they
were much more difficult than today;
they saw the furnishings of their
home which added neither comfort
nor beauty to their surroundings.

Yet, the hardy pioneer forged
ahead and reduced the forests to tilable land, drained the swamps
and built roads, all the while over-
coming seemingly, in this day, insurmountable difficulties. There is nothing we could do in their memory
to repay them for the labor they performed for us.

Fred VanNays, who first saw the sun shedding its rays over good Rush
county soil, was particularly happy
in his address Wednesday afternoon
when he congratulated Rush county
people on the fact that they lived in
a rural community, and his timely
observations on the trend of events
made every Rush county man and
woman proud of his or her heritage.

ALWAYS WELCOME

Organization of Juvenile Musicians Plays Difficult Numbers With

BOYS CONDUCT ALWAYS GOOD

No celebration of any kind or
character would be complete with-
out the Indianapolis News' News-
boys' band. This organization of juvenile musicians, which spent Wednesday in Rushville and provided
music for the Centennial again won
many friends here as it always has
in the past.

Under the direction of J. B. Vandaworker, conductor, the band plays difficult music with a precision and
skill which is seldom surpassed by a
band composed of men who are finished musicians. There is no brass
blare about their music. The effects
which these youthful musicians produce is nothing short of marvelous,
when it is remembered that they are
all boys with no special advantages
or opportunities to learn music, except what training they have had
under the band's conductor.

Rush county people always welcome the News' Newsboys' band because it is composed of a gentle-
manly lot of boys who always conduct themselves in a manner that
will never bring censure upon the
organization.

SWIMMERS TO HOLD A WATER CARNIVAL

Thirty Events Scheduled to be Held at Broad Ripple Swimming Pool in Three Days, Aug. 10-13

Is National Amateur Athletic Union Swimming Championship Meet, Including Six A. A. U. Events

By HEZE CLARK

Indianapolis, June 15.—Swimmers from all parts of the United States will compete in what promises to be the greatest water carnival ever held in Indiana. There are thirty events scheduled to be held at the Broad Ripple swimming pool in a three days swimming carnival, Aug. 10-12.

It is the national Amateur Athletic Union Swimming championship meet. There are six National A. A. U. events included in the program.

The success of the big meet held in the swimming pool at Broad Ripple park, north of Indianapolis last year resulted in Paul R. Jordan, chairman of the championship committee, being able to bring six national events to the Hoosier state this year.

John Weismuller of the Illinois Athletic club, who defeated Norman Ross last year in the national 220 yard championship, will try to break the world's record this year for that distance.

Ethelda Biebtrey and Charlotte Boyle, of the Womens Swimming association of New York, will enter the championship meet. An effort is being made to get Hilda James, the English champion, to meet the best of the American women swimmers in an international championship race, as the closing feature of the carnival.

Besides the six national events, there are thirty-four swimming and diving contests. Of this number six are state championship events. The other contests are open to athletes from the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Y. M. C. A. Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Boys Clubs and any Amateur athletes in the state who care to take part.

BACK in 1818 the greatest newspaper of the day declared that the world had reached the limit of human expansion. It even went further, saying that there weren't enough supplies in the world to support further growth of population.

The mind of 1818 couldn't conceive of the miracles that human ingenuity would perform during the twentieth century. It couldn't imagine the wonders that would be wrought by new agricultural methods and modern manufacturing genius. It was ignorant of transportation as we know it, or the progressive sales methods of today. It could not see the vital part that would be played by advertising.

Even today there are some who fail to realize what an important factor advertising has become. Advertising is as much a part of today's life as electricity, antiseptic surgery or automobiles. It keeps us up-to-date on the many things we need in order to live profitable, happy and useful lives. It presents for our approval articles of all kinds and for all purposes. ## ARTISTS BAFFLED BY GHOSTLY ART

Miss F. Marion Spore Says Her Paintings in Oil Are Directed by Painters, Long Since Dead

WORK THROUGH SPIRITUALIST

Woman Never Studied Art But She Claims Spirits Control Her Arms As She Dabs On The Paint

By J. W. T. MASON

New York, June 15—Wierd spiritualist oil paintings, purporting to have been produced under the direction of famous artists in the other world, and establishing a new form in bas-relief oil work, are puzzling psychic investigators at the Anderson galleries.

The medium through whom the ghostly art is put on canvas is Miss F. Marion Spore, aged 27, a graduate of the University of Michigan, without artistic ability and a practicing dentist until her spiritual experiences began some three years ago. Miss Spore has never studied painting. She says she is under the control of twelve artist spirits, headed by Della Robbia, who died between 400 and 500 years ago.

They direct her work, according to Miss Spore's belief, tell her how to handle her paints and guide her as she produces her uncanny color schemes.

The paintings are built up by the layers of oils applied on top of one another. Some of the objects stand out a couple inches, like miniature colored sculptures framed on a flat surface. In this respect Miss Spore's work is novel to the art world.

Most of the pictures would serve for futurist illustrations for Japanese and Chinese stories or tales from the Arabian Nights. There are flowing reds and gold, sombre blues and death-like blacks with occasional floral greens and pinks.

Castles that seem to be the home of phantoms; temples for exotic worshippers and dwellings of the dead are the dominant themes. They suggest a land of perpetual nightmare.

One picture is a study in crawling serpents and toadstools and is called "The temple of the snake worshippers." Another painting, an eastern temple by a great blotch of blue, represents a sacrificial tower and its moat of death. A scene of earthly life, shows hundreds of tiny ballet dancers performing on a rough globe, like maggots on a cheese, while a prickly serpent crawls upward from beneath preparing to devour them.

Miss Spore considers this one of her masterpiece.

Other interpreters of her mystic art, however, give first place to "The Ship of Death" which is the simplest of her works. It is a light craft, like a vessel of early Greek mythology, only the white sails are curved in haunting imitation of scythes. Seaweed with daisies that seem fallen from a corpse's wreath, trail behind the ship.

Except for a few pictures of flowers and fruits, done according to Miss Spore under special direction of the Della Robbia, all of the paintings have a mystic significance.

But Miss Spore herself is not at all mystical. She is anxious not to ally herself with spiritualism, because she fears quacks and frauds.

"I have never attended a spiritualistic seance and never consulted

a medium," she told me. "I don't go into trances when I paint. Up to the time of my mother's death, three and one-half years ago, I did not believe in spirits. I had always been able somehow to foresee events in dreams and I seemed to know personalities intuitively. Mother was opposed to spiritualism and so was I. After my mother's death, however, things changed. I heard voices. I was told to buy artists materials and I would be guided so as to make pictures. I followed instructions with these results. My mother's spirit has directed all this for me. She communicates with me and the spirits of the artists tell me about her.

"A group of dead artists work together through me. For instance, one artist does the grass, another the architecture, while the black cliffs in several of my paintings were done by Dore. The artists never seem to remember their names very long. They do not talk to me in English. They just project their thoughts to me and I receive their meaning in my own English language.

"The spirits find fault with me when I don't do exactly as they say, and then they tease me. They make me go over my work time and again if it doesn't satisfy them. When I mix my paints they tell me when to stop. I hold my brush free on the canvas and the spirits guide me. I never know what I am to do next until the brush moves under the spirits' control. They do everything. I do nothing."

Let Women Wear What They Please, Says Lew

Indianapolis, Ind., June 15.—Let the women wear what they please and take off what they want to.

If men don't like female knickers, they can look in another direction.

This is official Indianapolis attitude toward knickers for women as set forth today by Mayor Lew Shank.

"I don't give a hang what women wear," he said when shown a dispatch saying the mayor of Traverse City, Mich., demanded that women wear skirts.

"Why I wouldn't even try to tell my wife what she could or couldn't wear.

"Of course I wouldn't want Sarah to take to knickers, but if she decided to do so, I would have better sense than to tell her she couldn't wear them."

"I don't quite see what the women see in them, but they are a lot more modest than some of the short skirts and low cut waists that have been shocking our men for the last few years.

"When a short skirt or a pair of knickers goes down the street, the men nearly get cross-eyed trying to see it."

Whipping Cream "Mystery" Solved

The incorporation of air into cream by rapid agitation is spoken of as whipped cream. The cream in this condition has the appearance of foam and is extensively used among confectioners, bakers and cooks in the process of making candy, ice cream, cakes and desserts. Since whipped cream is so generally used it is important that the factors affecting the whipping qualities of cream be understood.

"Many people have difficulty in getting cream to whip because they do not take into consideration the factors and conditions which go to make good whipping cream," said Prof. H. W. Gregory, head of the dairy department of Purdue University. "Cream testing 20 percent butter-fat or better and held at a temperature between 40 and 50 degrees for 35-60 minutes will seldom fail to whip. Cream that is taken directly from the cream separator and cooled immediately, regardless of the thickness of the cream, will seldom whip. If it is let stand for 40 min. at 50 degrees and the test is above 20 percent it will whip readily.

"About 33-35 percent cream has been found to make the smoothest foam. It is often stated that pasteurized cream will not whip. This is not true. Cream will whip after being pasteurized if it is held at a low temperature long enough for the fat globules to coagulate. This takes about 35 minutes at a temperature of 40 degrees, an hour at a temperature of 45 degrees and 2 hours at a temperature of 50 degrees; or the addition of Viscoen to the amount of 1 percent or 1 teaspoonful to two cups of cream, accompanied with a temperature of about 50 degrees."

If the cream is sweet and held at a temperature of about 55 degrees the addition of Lactic Acid, 1 teaspoonful to 4 cups of cream, will often cause cream to whip that otherwise would not. There are several powders on the market which usually contain starch or gelatin that are often used to aid in the incorporation of air. They do assist in some extent but the main factor in whipping cream is low temperature and for the best results cream should be whipped in about 40 seconds, otherwise agitation is likely to cause the butterfat to separate, declared Prof. Gregory.

BAPTIST FIGHT REACHES CRUX

OR RETURN TO OLD METHODS

"Hard Shells" Prepared to Attack Report of General Board Which Spent Over a Million

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., June 15.—The fight between the conservatives and liberals for control of the Northern Baptist Convention reached a crux today.

Upon the result depended whether the church shall continue its policy of "progressive religion" or revert to acceptance of the Bible in its literal form without allowance for allegory.

They were complaining both about the amount and the way in which it was spent. Their first objection was against spending the money to carry out the ideas of religious education and social work started by the "organization" group now in power. The second was against the heavy expense of maintaining the board under a schedule not written by the convention which created it three years ago.

Dr. J. C. Massee of Boston said his fundamentalist followers do not plan to fight indiscriminately against anything proposed by the liberals. But they will continue their scrap on any move that would permit free interpretation of Biblical figures of speech.

This question was directly involved in the promotion board report. The board has been actively promoting the church work by extensive educational and medical missionary work as well as religious, depending upon its own interpretation of the Bible as to how things should be done.

Liberal leaders were frankly apprehensive of the strength of the conservatives. There hadn't been a real test. The liberals admit Mr. Massee's following this year is stronger this year than ever, but they say the "organization" program will go through and there will be no bolt.

The fundamentalists drew first blood, however, when they succeeded in having a motion adopted requiring the nominations for officers to be made public twenty-four hours before the vote. This was supported by the conservatives and the extreme radicals, but the element in power opposed it.

FRISCO TALKS TO HONOLULU

New Radio Station at the Presidio Can Be Heard Half Way Around the Globe.

"Hello, Honolulu."

That may sound like fiction, but it is a reality, nevertheless.

The new radio station at the Presidio, San Francisco, with aerial conditions right, can be heard half way around the globe. Officials in charge of construction declare it to be the most powerful vacuum tube transmitter on the Pacific coast.

Located on the highest point in the Presidio, overlooking San Francisco bay, two 150-foot aerial towers to augment its efficiency, the new station will command similar stations in Salt Lake City and Cheyenne.

Radiophones on German Trains.

Wireless telephone instruments will be installed on a number of important German express trains, and receiving instruments will be placed in hotels and embassies, according to an announcement made recently. Experiments conducted in a moving freight car have shown that the wireless system works well, the men engaged in the testing of the instruments being able to hold conversations with friends in Berlin. The tests were made under the observation of engineers, military attaches and the diplomatic representatives of the United States and Sweden.

Handling Vacuum Tubes.

When you handle the vacuum tubes of your receiver great care should be exercised that they are not knocked about or that the elements are broken. These little lamps are the heart and soul of the set. A good way to operate these tubes is to keep the glow just a little below the critical point.

ADVICE FOR AMATEURS.

The voltages applied to the plate circuits of amplifying tubes are not extremely critical and one voltage control will suffice. The detector tube, however, is often very critical and an efficient potentiometer will work wonders in controlling it.

Apparatus used for the reception of broadcasting is exactly the same as that used for the reception of code signals. The transmitting equipment, however, is different.

The use of a single wire for reception is advantageous because it lessens the amount of objectional interference in the way of static. It is equally as good as a multiple wire system for reception.

Defective "B" batteries will often cause roaring in the telephone receivers.

The electron often talked about is the smallest known quantity of negative electrical energy. In motion it makes up the electric current.

A "soft" vacuum tube is used as a detector tube and a "hard" vacuum tube as an amplifier. The terms "hard" and "soft" refer to degree of evacuation.

Radio waves travel at the same speed as light, namely 186,000 miles per second.

A wavemeter is an instrument used for checking up the wave lengths of sending and receiving stations.

Gas pipe or water pipe systems may be used for grounds, the latter being more advisable. Lightning protection secured by grounding the antenna when not in use is essential and is required by the underwriters.

Sheep in Wolves' Clothing.

In the early nineties a part of Idaho was terrorized by a band of six stage robbers, who, when rounded up at Salmon City, on April 4, 1892, were found to be all women, dressed in men's clothes.

Bluebloods To Snub Mathilde

(By United Press)

Zurich, June 15.—Mathilde McCormick, grand daughter of John D. Rockefeller, will be barred from Zurich society if she weds Max Oser.

The leaders of Switzerland's four hundred today are preparing to exclude Miss McCormick from their exclusive circles if she goes through with the marriage.

As Mathilde McCormick, member of one of the world's richest families she is welcome if properly introduced.

But as Fraulein Max Oser, wife of a livery stable man, she could only come in through the servant's entrance.

The four hundred have nothing personal against Oser, who has always acted as a gentleman, whose manners are perfect, and who is rather pitied because of the general belief that Mathilde threw herself at his head—but he simply doesn't "belong."

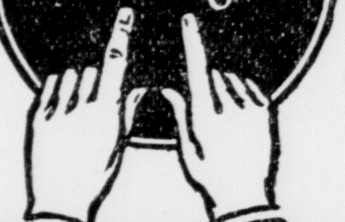

As one grand dame in Zurich expressed it:

"Oser is a perfect riding master, but he can enter our house only as a servant."

The bluebloods cannot forgive Oser's father for once having managed a circus.

However, many of these same exclusive personages are secretly hoping that the marriage will enable Max to purchase the riding school in which they are financially interested, and which is running at a loss. Oser is now merely a paid instructor and they would like to sell out to him.

Visitors Are Amazed at Display Col-
torical Pageant Tonight

Home Coming Day guests began to
gather early today for the feature
events of the Rush county Centennial celebration.

By noon the city was thronged
with visitors, most of whom were new
arrivals for Rush county's one hun-
dredth birthday anniversary party.

band concert at ten o'clock by the Knights of the Ku Klux and Sailors' Orphans' Home band.

Albert J. Beveridge, the speaker of
the day, arrived this morning and
was entertained by a group of Rush-
ville men at lunch at the Scanlan
hotel.

The historical, industrial and fraternal parade was to move promptly
at 1:30 o'clock, led by the Rushville police force, mounted, and followed by the Rushville band and the Rushville fire department, displaying
the different types of equipment
which have been used in Rushville
for fire fighting.

Several reunions were in progress
court house, and many people who
had not seen each other for years
were meeting, shaking hands and recalling things that happened years
ago.

The Noble township Frog pond
school was holding a meeting in the
Posey township Frog Pond school
was having their reunion in the assembly room.

The McManus school of Jackson
township met in the sheriff's office
while the descendants of William B.
Laughlin, a few in number, were
gathered in the rest room of the
library.

The school reunions were indulged
in by the former students, and several of the old-time teachers were with
them to reminisce.

While these reunions were being
held there were many old time set-
shaking hands with each other on
sides in Madison county, and left
here 40 years ago, had not seen any-
one he knew, but as the day went on,
he expected to meet many of his old
time acquaintances.

The historical division was to be
Indians and followed by floats representing the various townships. The Arlington band was to lead fraternal
section which will consist of floats
entered by lodges and of members
marching. The last division was to
consist of industrial floats representing both manufacturing institutions of the county and the retail

led by the Orphans' home band.

The parade will end at the coliseum in the city park, where there will
be another band concert by the Orphans' Home band and an address
by Mr. Beveridge.

The county's birthday cake will be
sliced at four o'clock at the Ford
building in West First street, where
the relics are on display and will be
guests.

The celebration will close with a
historical pageant at the coliseum
this evening at 7:15.

A large crowd was in attendance
at Wednesday evening's program
when the Indianapolis News' News-
boys' band gave a concert from the
platform in the court house yard and
the Rushville Community orchestra
building.

The exhibit of relics held the center of attention. Centennial visitors
have been amazed at the astonishing
number of old-fashioned articles
which have been collected both for
the main display and for the store
window displays.

Ed Blackledge of Kokomo, who together with Mrs. Blackledge, happened to be going through Rushville
Wednesday afternoon, was surprised
to find the crowd of people in Rush-
ville and remained to inquire what
was taking place.

Mr. and Mrs. Blackledge were persuaded to remain over night and attend the Centennial today. After a survey of the relics, they said that
many things lurking back to the old
event.

The Kokomo people had been in Madison where an exhibit of relics
was being made, and they stated
with the display being made here.

the Noble township display this
morning. It is a grammar tree ap-
was used in the early days to teach
Thomas Helman of Noble township

FORTY BAKERS ATTEND MEETING

Guests Represent Zones 12 and 13
of the Indiana Bakers

A. W. Wilkinson Welcomes Visitors
and Exhibits County 500-Pound
Birthday Cake

About forty bakers and others affiliated with the baking industry, were
here Wednesday night attending a
banquet given by A. W. Wilkinson,
local baker, the visitors representing
zones 12 and 13 of the Indiana Bakers' Association.

The meeting was held at the Scan-
lan Hotel, where a three course
chicken dinner was served, which
was followed with speeches by several distinguished guests, who spoke
on matters relative to the baking
interests.

Besides Decatur, Shelby, Fayette
and Rush counties, which comprise
visitors here from Indianapolis.

Elmer Cline of Indianapolis, representing the Taggart Baking Company, delivered an address, taking
the place of A. L. Taggart who was
unable to attend, and Eugene Quigg
of the Richmond Baking Company,
also was on the program for an address. Mr. Wilkinson welcomed the
visitors here in a short address,
and he also displayed to the visiting
bakers the 500 pound fruit cake
which he baked for the Rush County
Centennial, and which will be cut
this afternoon and served to the
visitors. The bakers commented up-
on the mammoth cake and stated it
was indeed a piece of art.

C. R. Russ, general manager for
the Fleischman Yeast Company, al-
so spoke, and several representatives
from trades affiliated with the baking
industry were present and spoke to
the bakers.

Those who were here and attended
the banquet were: S. C. Considine,
M. M. Elwonger, Will Stevens, S. J.
Bence, P. A. Bessin, L. H. Wilson, C.
P. Ehlers, Elmer Cline, R. T. Kelley,
John S. Clark, C. R. Russ and H.

LEADERS DRAWN FROM RURAL HOMES

In Times of Strife, America Seeks Men From Communities Like This,

MAKES CENTENNIAL ADDRESS

Reawakening in Public Affairs
by Men And Women.

Fred VanNuys, a native of this
county, and now a prominent attorney in Indianapolis, having recently
retired as district attorney for Indiana, came back home to mingle
with former friends, and to deliver
an inspiring address Wednesday
afternoon at the Rush county centennial, bringing out forcibly the fact
that from such homes as there are
in Rush county, America seeks men
to guide her in times of strife and
need.

"I am glad to come to Rushville
and to Rush county this afternoon,"
Mr. VanNuys said in the beginning,
after being introduced by Samuel
L. Trabue, "and to participate in
the distinguished occasion of this
celebration."

Mr. VanNuys' address following
the announcement of the awards in
the Centennial historical essay con-
test for the school children of the
county. The names of the winners
and the subjects on which they wrote
the Daily Republican. The awards
were read by W. E. Wagoner, county
chairman of the committee in charge
of the contest.

The afternoon program closed with
a concert by the Indianapolis News'
Newsboys' band, on the platform
in the court house yard.

He reminded the audience that he
was a native of this county, and
mouth, and jokingly stated that no
one knew there was a hill in Fal-
mouth excepting the older people,
who will recall it.

Following his address, it was clearly to be seen that he hailed from that neighborhood, because he was busily
engaged with renewing old acquaintances, many of whom he had not
seen for 40 years, and he promised
the townspeople that he would pay
all the boys and girls."

old friends here a few months
ago while touring in a special
car with her husband, who is a
railroad vice-president and general manager. The message
says:

you. My one regret is that I

Federation of Labor Will

(By United Press)

cinnati, Ohio, June 15.—American
labor leaders are ready to accept
and actively support Senator LaFollette's program giving congress
the veto power over the courts.

Unless a decided change in senti-
the American Federation of Labor
convention here will formally ap-
prove the LaFollette program next Wednesday.

In supporting LaFollette's suggestions, labor leaders today said they
realized that the congressional veto
was a revolutionary step, with unlimited possibilities. They predicted
that it would be denounced as a blow
at the constitution and the stability
of the American democracy.

These predictions were immediately borne out. The Cincinnati Enquirer, owned by John R. McLeann, in this morning's edition, assailed the LaFollette plan editorially as "anar-
chy" and said that were the proposal not "rebellious" it would be
ridiculous.

Winning Paper In Centennial Historical Essay Contest

Used by Miss Thelma Williams Who Was Awarded First Prize of $10.00.

"The First Settlement of Noble
Township" was the topic of the winning paper in the county historical
essay contest, which was written by Miss Thelma Williams of New Salem
and won for her the first prize of
$10. The paper was as follows:

Isaac Williams, the first settler of
Noble Township, was born in the Cumberland mountains, June 6th, 1785. About the year 1808 he was married to Margaret Ann Arnold, and
an humble but happy home was established. To this union were born
two children, Naney, afterward Mrs.
Nancy Henton, and William.

In 1813 Mr. Williams decided to
change his home and his star of
destiny led him to Franklin Co., Ind.,
Laurel.

In 1819 they again decided to change their home and removed to Noble Township where they established a permanent home one mile
north of New Salem's present site.

When they migrated from their
early Tennessee home, they, with
their children and meagre belongings,
braved the perils of the way mounted

upon one horse. When they removed from Franklin County to Rush county, they loaded their scanty cooking utensils and straw beds into an old wagon, then while the wife and mother drove, the husband and father cleared the road of brambles and underbrush through which she might pass. They blazed the way as they went, so they could find their way back to Laurel, as there was but one cabin between them and Laurel!

After traveling for about two days
they came to a place, which they thought would be a desirable place
for a home, as the ground was rolling and well drained, and a stream and spring were near by. Then they set about clearing the land on which they built their cabin.

The cabin was build of logs, hewn
on two sides and notched near the ends, and fitted together at the corners, as they were placed one above another. Small logs were laid lengthwise on these for the upper joists, on which long hand-riven cleatboards were laid. Graded lengths formed the gables. Small logs were

Two Hours Later

Fire in Chicken House Believed to Have Caused Explosion While
Mrs. David Used Spray

CLOTHES BURNED FROM BODY

3½ Miles Northwest of Here

Mrs. Martha David, age 52 years,
wife of Dora David, residing 3½ miles
northwest of Rushville, was fatally
burned late Wednesday afternoon,
and a large building on the farm
destroyed, when gasoline exploded
inside the building while she was
spraying the place for chicken lice.

The accident happened about four
o'clock in the afternoon and the
victim lived two hours and was con-
scious until a short time before she
died, and suffered intense pain.

The building in which the explosion
occurred was used for a granary,
poultry house and garage. In the
poultry section a chicken brooder
was equipped with a gas heater, and Mrs. David turned on the gas, but
a small spark of fire is believed to
have remained in the mixer.

She was spraying the walls with
gasoline to kill the chicken lice and
when the room became filled with the
gas flame set off the explosion, which
fired the building immediately, and
set Mrs. David's clothing on fire.

Mr. David was working in a field
nearby and heard the explosion, and
saw his wife running out of the
building in flames, and when he reached her, the clothing was burned off her body.

Other neighbors heard the report
and came to their assistance and
fought the flames with water. A
call was sent to the local fire department and Firemen Moffitt and
West, in charge of the chemical
truck, reached the scene in 7 minutes.

Another building used as a pump-
ing station was saved with the
chemicals, and by saving this building it prevented the flames from
reaching a large barn and the
dwelling. The firemen used 56 gallons
of chemicals.

$1,000, which is partially covered
by insurance. An automobile in the building was saved by the neighbors.

Physicians who were called to
seriousness of her burns and she
expired about six o'clock.

The funeral services for the victim will be held Friday afternoon at
two o'clock at the Main Street Chris-
the Rev. C. S. Lewis of Bedford,
Ind., and interment will be made in East Hill cemetery. The husband and

Dr. Carey's famous prescription No. 777 (Liquid or Tablets) is not recommended for everything, but we cannot too strongly urge its use if you suffer from annoying bladder troubles, frequent passing of water night and day, with smarting or irritation, brick dust sediment or highly colored urine, bloating irritability with loss of flesh, backache, rheumatism or any other tendency to Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Gravel, for kidney disease in its worst form may be stealing upon you.

Don't wait until tomorrow to begin the use of this wonderful prescription if you have any of the above symptoms. Kidney and Bladder troubles don't wear away. They will grow upon you slowly, stealthily and with unfailing certainty.

Never mind the failures of the past if you even suspect that you are subject to kidney disease; don't lose a single day for every good druggist has been authorized to return the purchase money on the first bottle to all who state they have received no benefit.

The speaker assailed the tactics used in the legislature in Massachusetts, when the late William A. Ketchum, former Commander of the G. A. R., was rebuffed for attempting to have them agree with him that the hope of this country rested upon "One Country, one language and one flag." The legislature, forty in number, passed a resolution denouncing his idea, as expressed to them at their assembly.

He continued to bring out the different types of people which compose the inhabitants of our land, and he criticized the attitude of these Massachusetts lawmakers, and jokingly remarked that "if Jim Watson, or any other Indiana statesman" who wanted to write his name higher in the hall of fame, could soon do so, if he would have congress move Plymouth Rock to Rush county, where the people will cling to the masterpiece idea, One Country, one language and one flag.

"What we need today," Mr. VanNuy's continued, "is a wholesale reawakening in public affairs by men and women. And in the fact that we have suffering today, do we see one of the hopeful signs of relief."

"You know that about the only time that some men used to take their wives up town was to sign a deed, or see the creek when it had overflowed its banks," the speaker continued.

"We have a new era today. Women are voting now and in that fact, may we hope for some renewed interest in public and civic affairs. The women of this country are awake and are reading and taking an interest in political affairs and within a short time may we hope for a reawakened public spirit."

"As I said in the beginning, it is a pleasure to come here and to speak briefly to the good, old substantial citizenship of Rush county."

"A time never existed in our country when a movement or a leader was necessary to bring about needed reforms but what that movement and that leader were forth coming."

"Out in the backwoods of Illinois there lived a plain and humble man, who had surveyed the forests of his state with a grapevine in lieu of a surveyor's chain, and read the history of his country by the light of the back log."

"But out of the lips of that man came the edict—'This nation can never exist half slave and half free,' and call it Destiny, call it Fate, call it God—call it what you will—Abraham Lincoln was raised to the position where he struck the shackles from the bodies and souls of thousands of black men and women."

"We have serious problems to solve today."

"We need leadership and co-operation upon the part of the best men and women of the country—and by the same tokens which have distinguished us in the past—that leadership and that co-operation will be forthcoming."

"History will verify the truthfulness of the statement that whenever a leader was needed in the field of battle, whenever men were needed for the trenches, whenever domestic entanglements have arisen and men were needed to entangle the skeins and to lead our people back again into the proper ways of thinking and living—America has gone to the farms and the small towns to find these leaders."

"It has seldom found them in the glare of the electric light or amid the intoxicating strands of the jazz band. It went to the good old-fashioned homes of America where the good, old-fashioned mothers and fathers taught their sons and daughters proper thinking and proper living."

"It went to these homes where the boys and girls were taught to do an honest day's work for an honest day's pay and to pay an honest day's wage for an honest day's work."

"It went to these homes where the blood was kept pure and clean and where the traditions and the history and the wholesome ideals of America were taught as religion is taught and were in truth and in fact a part of religion."

"It went to the home where the good old-fashioned mothers and fathers taught their children to pay their debts and to fear God and love their country—and let the future take care of itself."

"These parents so taught and the children understood and obeyed and all the diseased and festering ambitions of tyrants abroad and all the criticism and sniping of disloyalists

at home has not been able to rock the foundations of American character or American institutions in the least, jot or tittle."

"We rejoice and are exceedingly glad this afternoon that we have all been privileged to be born in or to live in communities like dear old Rush County."

"It is out of communities like these that America has found her leaders and her substantial citizens and has been able to build for herself a distinguished place among the nations of the world."

In explaining, Wednesday afternoon, how the bronze memorial tablet had been conceived in 1914 and steps which had been taken to bring it about, Mrs. Sarah Giffin, chairman of the D. A. R. committee which arranged for the tablet, spoke as follows:

"The Daughters of the American Revolution of the Rushville Chapter, have been looking forward to this happy day, with a great deal of pleasure since April 16, 1914."

"At a regular meeting of our chapter held on that date at the home of Miss Laura Meredith, a paper was read on 'Rush County History' by the late Mrs. Mary M. Alexander. After having heard the excellent paper a member present proposed that the paper be published in pamphlet form and sold; and during the discussion which followed, it was decided to use the money thus derived, as a basis for a fund to be used to erect a tablet, to the memory of all the Revolutionary soldiers, buried in Rush county."

"This culminated in the chapter publishing a book on Rush county history, written by Mrs. Mary A. Alexander in 1915. Great credit should be given her for her effort and untiring work, which she so willingly did, to make the book a success. As chairman of this book committee, I want to thank the business men of Rushville for their financial help by giving us their small advertisements for this book, which will add greatly to its value in later years. Many of you have a copy of this book in your home and the Daughters will gladly supply any others with a copy."

"The tablet was not ordered until May 10 and we must give great credit to the firm of Paul E. Cabaret of New York for rushing through the order for us, that we might be able to make it a part of our Centennial celebration."

"The Daughters of the Rushville Chapter have a right to be proud of this tablet, as it gives to Rush county, a part of our history, which had never before been compiled."

"It is a very great honor to our county, that we have buried within our borders so many Revolutionary soldiers. We have the names of 22 on our tablet, and less than a week ago learned of another, that of John Runyon, buried in Flatrock cemetery. Our chapter will continue to hunt for others who may be buried in Rush county."

"It is our desire that government markers and Revolutionary flag-bearers, be on each of their graves."

"I want to thank the members who served with me on this committee for their good work, which has enabled our Chapter to have our tablet ready for today. I thank you."

The members of the memorial tablet committee, in addition to Mrs. Giffin, are: Mrs. H. V. Logan, regent, Mrs. Will Dill, Mrs. Jabez Wanship, Mrs. Jesse Logan, and Mrs. Leila Gilbert.

A MODERN ENOCH

Muncie, Ind., June 15.—The story of a modern Enoch Arden was related in court Wednesday. It was contained in a suit for annulment by Mrs. Arlie Mann of her marriage a year ago to Orlan Mann.

The action was taken because her first husband Timothy Maloney, whom she thought was dead, returned last Sunday very much alive. He had gone to Missouri three years ago to work and a year later she read an account of his death in a union magazine. Regarding herself a widow she married the following year to Orlan Mann and lived happily until her first love returned.

BETTER AFTER OPERATION

Mrs. H. C. Sexton, wife of Dr. H. C. Sexton, a Shelbyville dentist, who was taken suddenly and seriously ill last Sunday and was removed to the Dr. Sexton hospital here, is reported to be improved following an operation for acute, gangrenous appendicitis.

placed on these, from one end of the building to the other, on which the board roof was placed. Other logs were laid on the boards to hold them in place while wooden braces held them apart.

The floor was made from large logs split in two, and made smooth with a broad-axe. They were called puncheons and were laid on log sills.

The doors were made from long boards fastened to long wooden hinges with wooden pins, and hung on a wooden pivot. A place cut in the side wall, covered with greased paper, made the window.

For a fireplace an opening was cut out at one end of the cabin several feet wide and the chimney was built on the outside. A heavy framework of slabs was fastened to the cabin and mortar and large rocks placed inside of it five feet high. The upper part of it was finished with square sticks and mortar. A crane was fastened in one of the side walls of the fire place on which their scanty cooking utensils were hung over the fire.

Iron skillets and oven, with short iron legs, and lids of the same material, were used for cooking on the hearth by placing live coals under and over them. Pies were made on a table, carried on the hands and laid, and cooked, in skillet, as they had no pie pans.

The hunter's rifle was always laid in two forked sticks over the door, ready for use if game of any kind appeared.

The women often assisted the men with their work, kept house, picked, carded, spun and colored the wool, then wove the wool and flax into cloth and made it into garments and other household needs. They planted and cultivated the garden, gathered medicinal herbs, prescribed and cared for the sick. The washing was done on the hands. All the sewing was done by hand.

All was not toil and hardship for these people, for they had their amusements along with their troubles. They had corn huskings, wood-hoppings, quilting bees, and singing schools, where fun and innocent pastimes were enjoyed. Sometimes there was a dance, but it was the stately minuet, cotillon, or Virginia reel.

The old William cabin is still standing, a part of an old barn on the Andrew Giffin farm, which is now occupied by M. O. Sefton.

Mr. Williams died Sept. 6, 1853, followed by his wife Sept. 15, 1871.

SUMMER SCHOOL STARTS JUNE 15

Credit Will Be Given On A University Degree For The Work Taken During The Summer.

Lafayette, Ind., June 15.—The annual summer school at Purdue University will start Thursday June 15, with enrollment coming that day and classes starting the following morning. Indications now are for the largest summer school enrollment ever obtained here and with the 33 instructors, regular members of the Purdue staff retained, there will be ample provision for all who come, Dean George L. Roberts states.

The summer school sessions were resumed two years ago after being stopped several years on account of the war. The enrollment then was 45. Last year it was 172 and judging from the large number of inquiries from teachers and high school graduates of this year, it will go considerably above this figure this year.

Courses will be offered in all lines of agriculture, home economics, trades and industries, education, academic topics including chemistry, biology, English history, mathematics etc. Physical education also will offer an opportunity for the men to learn coaching methods employed by Purdue, and the women who are preparing to teach also can get some of this work. In addition to this a conference of vocational agricultural teachers will be held the first ten days of the summer school period starting June 15 and ending June 24.

Credit will be given on a university degree for the work taken during the summer, and many will take advantage of the summer work in order to finish their work for graduation.

MOSQUITOES ARE PLENTIFUL

Warsaw Commissioner Attempts To Kill Pests In Lowlands With Oil

Warsaw, Ind., June 15.—Mosquitoes have become so thick in Warsaw and Kosciusko county this spring that for the first time in the history of this city the common council has instructed the street commissioner to purchase a quantity of oil to be placed on the lowlands north of the city with a view of killing off the pests.

Night automobile parties traveling through Kosciusko county in recent weeks have reported that they were attacked by swarms of thousands of mosquitoes and that life for them was made almost unbearable until they were able to reach towns, where the pests were less prevalent.

Really Serious Horrors. Nothing that is admittedly and unmistakably horrible matters very much, because it frightens people into seeking a remedy; the serious horrors are those which seem entirely respectable and normal to respectable and normal men.—Bernard Shaw.

Movies Replace "Drunk Cures"

By Carl Victor Little. (U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, June 15.—Movie films today replaced the "cure" for inebriates.irate wives, wanting their husbands to view themselves as others do, now call the cameraman to shoot a few reels of the head of the house as he "weaves" home after the cocktail hour.

"We get several calls each week from wives who want their husbands put on the celluloid," said Watter-son R. Roachacker, movie producer, today.

"Just before the husband—a bit worse for wear—is 'poured' from a taxi, the wife puts in a rush order for a cameraman.

"A Close-up is taken as he un-standly moves up the cement stairs. Then he is snapped trying to prove to his wife he hasn't had a drink. He sinks into the softest chair, another close up.

"The fade-out is taken when he stretches out in bed, fully dressed from shoes to hat."

Then, said the producer, on some cold gray dawn several days after-ward, a sheet is placed against the wall, and the flickering serio-comic drama, is shown.

"It either cures him—or he goes out and gets drunk again to forget how he looked," said Roachacker. Some wives, he said, furnish music with their movies.

A blank record is put on as the husband is filmed when he returns home. This is turned on while the film flickers before him.

"Tis quite embarrassing," said Roachacker, "for a husband to hear himself speak as follows while view-ing himself as a film 'star.'"

"Blah, blatto, blah, blah, blatto."

Warsaw, Ind., June 15.—The financial condition of farmers of Kosciusko county is improving, according to County Treasurer Edward Poulson, who bases his assertion on the fact that tax collections from persons living in the rural district of the county were better this spring than in many years. Comparatively few farm land taxes went delinquent this spring.

Widest Open Bathing

Chicago, June 15.—Discovered: The widest open bathing suit town in America. It's Winetka.

Waino Peterson, chief of police, who wears his star on a bright yellow bathing suit, has an eye for beauty. And furthermore, he's proud of it.

"Come on to Winetka, girls, the bill's off," said the chief today.

"Throw your bathing skirts to the wind. Just as long as you wear trunks, everything's all right.

"There's no reformers following you around with a tape measure as long as I run this shoe-girl's town. Let your home training and your beauty be your guide.

The liberal chief, however, has drawn one line. "I hated to do'er," he apologized.

He decreed that "there would be no dressing and undressing on the beaches." He explained this by saying that the 25c entrance fee to the

The First Hundred Years

The observance of Rush county's
one hundredth birthday will end tonight with a program that will review
the history of the county during the
first one hundred years.

No one can justly say that Rush
county people of the present generation did not do it well.

In a substantial and reverential
way, they let the world know that
they appreciated the labor of love
performed by those who went before
—the pioneers, the strong people, of the effort to establish their way westward to our part of the wilderness, a home for themselves and their
descendants yet unborn.

Nothing served more to impress
the people who attended the centennial celebration, than the exhibit of relics, which faithfully stamped on
their minds the hardships which their
forebears endured that we might enjoy the blessings which we have to-
day.

Centennial visitors saw the crude
implements which they had in use in
their everyday tasks, when they
were much more difficult than today;
they saw the furnishings of their
home which added neither comfort
nor beauty to their surroundings.

Yet, the hardy pioneer forged
ahead and reduced the forests to
tillable land, drained the swamps
and built roads, all the while over-
coming seemingly, in this day, insur-
mountable difficulties. There is nothing we could do in their memory
to repay them for the labor they performed for us.

Ed VanNoy, who first saw the
sun shedding its rays over good Rush
county soil, was particularly happy
in his address Wednesday afternoon
when he congratulated Rush county
people on the fact that they lived in
a rural community, and his timely
observations on the trend of events
made every Rush county man and
woman proud of his or her heritage.

BOYS CONDUCT ALWAYS GOOD

No celebration of any kind or
character would be complete with-
out the Indianapolis News' News-
boys' band. This organization of juvenile musicians, which spent Wednesday in Rushville and provided
music for the Centennial again won
many friends here as it always has
in the past.

Under the direction of J. B. Van-dauwerke, conductor, the band plays
difficult music with a precision and
skill which is seldom surpassed by a
band composed of men who are finished musicians. There is no brass
blare about their music. The effects
which these youthful musicians produce is nothing short of marvelous,
when it is remembered that they are
all boys with no special advantages
or opportunities to learn music, except what training they have had
under the band's conductor.

Rush county people always wel-
come the News' Newsboys' band be-
cause it is composed of a gentle-
manly lot of boys who always conduct themselves in a manner that
will never bring censure upon the
organization.

SWIMMERS TO HOLD A WATER CARNIVAL

Thirty Events Scheduled to be Held at Broad Ripple Swimming Pool in Three Days, Aug. 10-12

Is National Amateur Athletic Union Swimming Championship Meet, Including Six A. A. U. Events

By HEZE CLARK

Indianapolis, June 15.—Swimmers from all parts of the United States will compete in what promises to be the greatest water carnival ever held in Indiana. There are thirty events scheduled to be held at the Broad Ripple swimming pool in a three days swimming carnival, Aug. 10-12.

It is the national Amateur Athletic Union Swimming championship meet. There are six National A. A. U. events included in the program.

The success of the big meet held in the swimming pool at Broad Ripple park, north of Indianapolis last year resulted in Paul R. Jordan, chairman of the championship committee, being able to bring six national events to this Hoosier state this year.

John Weismuller of the Illinois Athletic club, who defeated Norman Ross last year in the national 220 yard championship, will try to break the world's record this year for that distance.

Etheldra Bleibrey and Charlotte Boyle, of the Womens Swimming association of New York, will enter the championship meet. An effort is being made to get Hilda James, the English champion, to meet the best of the American women swimmers in an international championship race, as the closing feature of the carnival.

Besides the six national events, there are thirty-four swimming and diving contests. Of this number six are state championship events. The other contests are open to athletes from the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Y. M. C. A., Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Boys Clubs and any Amateur athletes in the state who care to take part.

They Couldn't Know

BACK in 1818 the greatest newspaper of the day declared that the world had reached the limit of human expansion. It even went further, saying that there weren't enough supplies in the world to support further growth of population.

The mind of 1818 couldn't conceive of the miracles that human ingenuity would perform during the twentieth century. It couldn't imagine the wonders that would be wrought by new agricultural methods and modern manufacturing genius. It was ignorant of transportation as we know it, or the progressive sales methods of today. It could not see the vital part that would be played by advertising.

Even today there are some who fail to realize what an important factor advertising has become. Advertising is as much a part of today's life as electricity, antiseptic surgery or automobiles. It keeps us up-to-date on the many things we need in order to live profitably, happy and useful lives. It presents for our approval articles of all kinds and for all purposes. The advertisements save time, money and effort for those who read them and follow their guidance. They are practical guarantees of satisfaction.

ARTISTS BAFFLED BY GHOSTLY ART

WORK THROUGH SPIRITUALIST

Woman Never Studied Art But She Claims Spirits Control Her Arms As She Dabs On The Paint

By J. W. T. MASON
New York, June 15.—Wierd spiritualist oil paintings, purporting to have been produced under the direction of famous artists in the other world, and establishing a new form in bas-relief oil work, are puzzling psychic investigators at the Anderson galleries.

The medium through whom the ghostly art is put on canvas is Miss F. Marion Spore, aged 27, a graduate of the University of Michigan, without artistic ability and a practicing dentist until her spiritual experiences began some three years ago. Miss Spore has never studied painting. She says she is under the control of twelve artist spirits, headed by Della Robbia, who died between 400 and 500 years ago.

They direct her work, according to Miss Spore's belief, tell her how to handle her paints and guide her as she produces her uncanny color schemes.

The paintings are built up by the layers of oils applied on top of one another. Some of the objects stand out a couple inches, like miniature colored sculptures framed on a flat surface. In this respect Miss Spore's work is novel to the art world.

Most of the pictures would serve for futurist illustrations for Japanese and Chinese stories or tales from the Arabian Nights. There are flowing reds and gold, sombre blues and death-like blacks with occasional floral greens and pinks.

Castles that seem to be the home of phantoms; temples for exotic worshippers and dwellings of the dead are the dominant themes. They suggest a land of perpetual nightmare.

One picture is a study in crawling serpents and landstools and is called "the temple of the snake worshippers." Another painting, an eastern temple by a great blotch of blue, represents a sacrificial tower and its moat of death. A scene of earthly life, shows hundreds of tiny ballet dancers performing on a rough globe, like maggots on a cheese, while a prickly serpent crawls upward from beneath preparing to devour them.

Miss Spore considers this one of her masterpieces.

Other interpreters of her mystic art, however, give first place to "The Ship of Death" which is the simplest of her works. It is a light craft, like a vessel of early Greek mythology, only the white sails are curved in haunting imitation of scythes. Seaweed with daisies that seem fallen from a corpse's wreath, trail behind the ship.

Except for a few pictures of flowers and fruits, done according to Miss Spore under special direction of the Della Robbias, all of the paintings have a mystic significance.

But Miss Spore herself is not at all mystical. She is anxious not to ally herself with spiritualism, because she fears quacks and frauds.

a medium," she told me. "I don't go into trances when I paint. Up to the time of my mother's death, three and one-half years ago, I did not believe in spirits. I had always been able somehow to foresee events in dreams and I seemed to know personalities intuitively. Mother was opposed to spiritualism and so was I. After my mother's death, however, things changed. I heard voices. I was told to buy artists materials and I would be guided so as to make pictures. I followed instructions with these results. My mother's spirit has directed all this for me. She communicates with me and the spirits of the artists tell me about her.

"A group of dead artists work together through me. For instance, one artist does the grass, another the architecture, while the black cliffs in several of my paintings were done by Dore. The artists never seem to remember their names very long. They do not talk to me in English. They just project their thoughts to me and I receive their meaning in my own English language.

"The spirits find fault with me when I don't do exactly as they say, and then they tease me. They make me go over my work time and again if it doesn't satisfy them. When I mix my paints they tell me when to stop. I hold my brush free on the canvas and the spirits guide me. I never know what I am to do next until the brush moves under the spirits' control. They do everything. I do nothing."

Let Women Wear What They Please, Says Lew

Indianapolis, Ind., June 15.—Let the women wear what they please and take off what they want to.

If men don't like female knickers, they can look in another direction.

This is official Indianapolis attitude toward knickers for women as set forth today by Mayor Lew Shank.

"I don't give a hang what women wear," he said when shown a dispatch saying the mayor of Traverse City, Mich., demanded that women wear skirts.

"Why I wouldn't even try to tell my wife what she could or couldn't wear."

"Of course I wouldn't want Sarah to take to knickers, but if she decided to do so, I would have better sense than to tell her she couldn't wear them."

"I don't quite see what the women see in them, but they are a lot more modest than some of the short skirts and low cut waists that have been shocking our men for the last few years."

Whipping Cream "Mystery" Solved

The incorporation of air into cream by rapid agitation is spoken of as whipped cream. The cream in this condition has the appearance of foam and is extensively used among confectioners, bakers and cooks in the process of making candy, ice cream, cakes and desserts. Since whipped cream is so generally used it is important that the factors affecting the whipping qualities of cream be understood.

"Many people have difficulty in getting cream to whip because they do not take into consideration the factors and conditions which go to make good whipping cream," said Prof. H. W. Gregory, head of the dairy department of Purdue University. "Cream testing 20 percent butter-fat or better and held at a temperature between 40 and 50 degrees for 35-60 minutes will seldom fail to whip. Cream that is taken directly from the cream separator and cooled immediately, regardless of the thickness of the cream, will seldom whip. If it is let stand for 40 min. at 50 degrees and the test is above 20 percent it will whip readily.

"About 33-35 percent cream has been found to make the smoothest foam. It is often stated that pasteurized cream will not whip. This is not true. Cream will whip after being pasteurized if it is held at a low temperature long enough for the fat globules to coagulate. This takes about 35 minutes at a temperature of 40 degrees, an hour at a temperature of 45 degrees and 2 hours at a temperature of 50 degrees; or the addition of Visco-gen to the amount of 1 percent or 1 teaspoonful to two cups of cream, accompanied with a temperature of about 50 degrees."

If the cream is sweet and held at a temperature of about 55 degrees the addition of Lactic Acid, 1 teaspoonful to 4 cups of cream, will often cause cream to whip that otherwise would not. There are several powders on the market which usually contain starch or gelatin that are often used to aid in the incorporation of air. They do assist in some extent but the main factor in whipping cream is low temperature and for the best results cream should be whipped in about 40 seconds, otherwise agitation is likely to cause the butterfat to separate, declared Prof. Gregory.

BAPTIST FIGHT REACHES CRUX

"Hard Shells" Prepared to Attack Report of General Board Which Spent Over a Million

(By United Press)
Indianapolis, Ind., June 15.—The fight between the conservatives and liberals for control of the Northern Baptist Convention reached a crux today.

Upon the result depended whether the church shall continue its policy of "progressive religion" or revert to acceptance of the Bible in its literal form without allowance for allegory.

They were complaining both about the amount and the way in which it was spent. Their first objection was against spending the money to carry out the ideas of religious education and social work started by the "organization" group now in power. The second was against the heavy expense of maintaining the board under a schedule not written by the convention which created it three years ago.

Dr. J. C. Massee of Boston said his fundamentalist followers do not plan to fight indiscriminately against anything proposed by the liberals. But they will continue their scrap on any move that would permit free interpretation of Biblical figures of speech.

This question was directly involved in the promotion board report. The board has been actively promoting the church work by extensive educational and medical missionary work as well as religious, depending upon its own interpretation of the Bible as to how things should be done.

Liberal leaders were frankly apprehensive of the strength of the conservatives. There hadn't been a real test. The liberals admit Mr. Massee's following this year is stronger than ever, but they say the "organization" program will go through and there will be no halt.

The fundamentalists drew first blood, however, when they succeeded in having a motion adopted requiring the nominations for officers to be made public twenty-four hours before the vote. This was supported by the conservatives and the extreme radicals, but the element in power opposed it.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Lucretia Saunders and daughter Lucretia Ann and Mrs. C. Aneshenfel, of Indianapolis were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Miller today and attended the Centennial celebration.

Miss Winona Newsom of Carthage and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Morrison and daughter Marjorie of Shelbyville were the dinner guests of the Misses Nelle and Emma Cassidy today at their home in North Main street.

Approximately two hundred invitations have been issued for a party to be given next Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. C. Compton, 314 West Third street. The hostesses are Mrs. George Hehn, Mrs. Chester Cross, Mrs. Aaron Wellman, Mrs. Ray Compton and Mrs. D. C. Compton.

SIGNS OF RECOVERY

Mrs. John M. Depweg of North Morgan street, who has been seriously ill for eight weeks, is showing signs of recovery, and is gradually getting better.

New York.—Three hundred thousand took advantage of the opening of the bathing season at Coney Island and only one arrest, for a punch in the nose to a peeper, marred the day.

High Price of Forgery.
Three hundred years ago forgery in Britain was punishable by death. In earlier times still, the punishment was standing in the pillory, having both ears cut off, having the nostrils slit and perpetual imprisonment.

MRS. ELIZABETH CLARK

Mrs. Elizabeth Clark of Atlantic City has started suit for the restoration of 15,000 acres of land which, she says, was granted to antecedents of her family by Queen Anne of England. The land she claims includes all of Brighton Beach, part of Atlantic City, Long Island, and a section of northern New Jersey.

FRISCO TALKS TO HONOLULU

New Radio Station at the Presidio Can Be Heard Half Way Around the Globe.

"Hello, Honolulu."
That may sound like fiction, but it is a reality, nevertheless.

The new radio station at the Presidio, San Francisco, with aerial conditions right, can be heard half way around the globe. Officials in charge of construction declare it to be the most powerful vacuum tube transmitter on the Pacific coast.

Located on the highest point in the Presidio, overlooking San Francisco bay, two 150-foot aerial towers to augment its efficiency, the new station will command similar stations in Salt Lake City and Cheyenne.

Radiophones on German Trains.

Wireless telephone instruments will be installed on a number of important German express trains, and receiving instruments will be placed in hotels and embassies, according to an announcement made recently. Experiments conducted in a moving freight car have shown that the wireless system works well, the men engaged in the testing of the instruments being able to hold conversations with friends in Berlin. The tests were made under the observation of engineers, military attaches and the diplomatic representatives of the United States and Sweden.

Handling Vacuum Tubes.

When you handle the vacuum tubes of your receiver great care should be exercised that they are not knocked about or that the elements are broken. These little lumps are the heart and soul of the set. A good way to operate these tubes is to keep the glow just a little below the critical point.

ADVICE FOR AMATEURS.

The voltages applied to the plate circuits of amplifying tubes are not extremely critical and one voltage control will suffice. The detector tube, however, is often very critical and an efficient potentiometer will work wonders in controlling it.

Apparatus used for the reception of broadcasting is exactly the same as that used for the reception of code signals. The transmitting equipment, however, is different.

Radio waves travel at the same speed as light, namely 186,000 miles per second.

A wavemeter is an instrument used for checking up the wave lengths of sending and receiving stations.

Gas pipe or water pipe systems may be used for grounds, the latter being more advisable. Lightning protection secured by grounding the antenna when not in use is essential and is required by the underwriters.

Sheep in Wolves' Clothing.

In the early nineties a part of Idaho was terrorized by a band of six stage robbers, who, when rounded up at Salmon City, on April 4, 1892, were found to be all women, dressed in men's clothes.

Bluebloods To Snub Mathilde

(By United Press)

Zurich, June 15.—Mathilde McCormick, grand daughter of John D. Rockefeller, will be barred from Zurich society if she weds Max Oser.

The leaders of Switzerland's four hundred today are preparing to exclude Miss McCormick from their exclusive circles if she goes through with the marriage.

But as Fraulein Max Oser, wife of a livery stable man, she could only come in through the servant's entrance.

As one grand dame in Zurich expressed it:

The bluebloods cannot forgive Oser's father for once having managed a circus.

However, many of these same exclusive personages are secretly hoping that the marriage will enable Max to purchase the riding school in which they are financially interested, and which is running at a loss. Oser is now merely a paid instructor and they would like to sell out to him.

"Hail The Woman" Closes Today

The inspired story of modern American womanhood is told in a deeply emotional and dramatic vein in "Hail The Woman," Thomas H. Ince's enthralling transcript of life, which closes an engagement at the New Princess today.

The picture demonstrates clearly that romance, as rich and thrilling as sung by the minstrels of old, is found abundantly in everyday happenings of American life. The play is a mental stimulant, a succession of powerful situations, interpreted by a brilliant cast of highly talented and universally popular screen players.

The role of Judith Beresford, devoted "Woman" of the play is interpreted by Florence Vidor, who has fully grasped the dramatic spirit of the story, and gives to its expression the best that is in her. Her characterization is powerful and worthy in every respect of the great and immortal theme.

Madge Bellamy, as the tragic, pitiful figure of Nan, the symbolization of betrayed and deserted womanhood achieves heights of expressive portrayal that stamp her a great tragedienne.

Lloyd Hughes ably acquits himself of a difficult task in portraying the weak character of David Beresford, who has secretly married Nan, but lacks courage to face his father and disclose the fact of his marriage. As a result Nan's life is ruined.

A splendidly virile characterization is that which Theodore Roberts gives to the role of Oliver Beresford, the stern old Puritan who rules his family with a hand of iron.

"The Frame-Up" A Thriller

The headliner, "High-Gear Jeffrey," showing at the Mystic Theatre Friday, is full of action from start to finish. This comedy-drama gives the popular star a part which he plays in a manner which is both daring and amusing. He simply lets himself loose in it. The role of the rich, happy-go-lucky dare-devil who lands himself a chauffeur's job, the kind "with a kick in it," which "kick" knocks the bottom out of some underworld schemes and wins him a wife on the spur of the moment—this is a made-to-order role for William Russell.

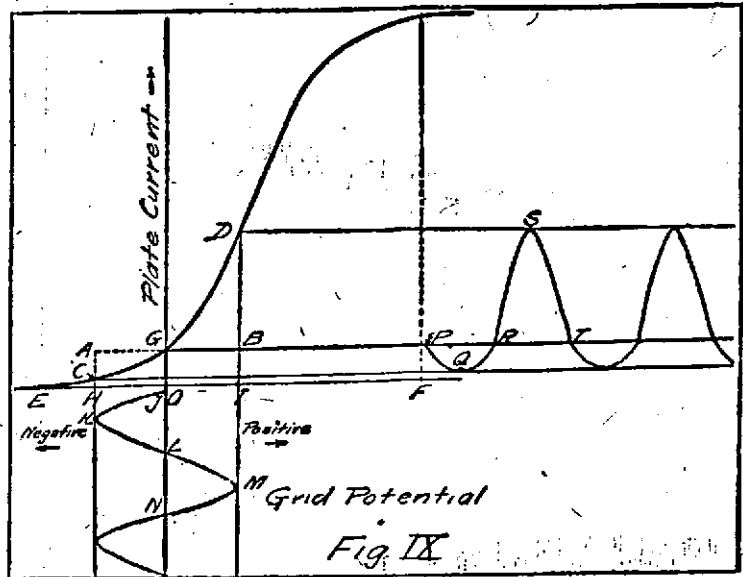

The play starts off with his daring leap from the seat of his father's racing car to the running board of another which was trying to out distance him. A rough and tumble fist fight with the chauffeur, whom he whips and throws out, paves the way to his new job. This was a starter, the wind-up being his encounter with four yeggmen, and a battle of wits right through. All of the acts contain vivid, daring performances, which, it is said, were preceded by surgeon's bills for dislocations and sprains before some of his neck-breaking stunts were put over to his and the director's satisfaction.

POSITION AND SIZE OF GRID IMPORTANT

Determine Value of Negative Potential Necessary to Reduce the Plate Current to Zero.

In using a three-electrode vacuum tube in a radio set it is preferable to maintain the grid negative with respect to the filament in order to require the minimum amount of energy in the control of the plate circuit. The relative position of the grid with respect to the filament and the plate and the size of the mesh of the grid, determine the value of E. E is the negative potential which must be applied to the grid in order to reduce the plate current to zero. The value of P, which is the positive grid potential that will cause the maximum or saturation current to flow in the plate circuit, is also determined by the relative position of the grid with respect to the filament and plate. If the grid is of very fine mesh, the value of E is small because the electrons in passing through the small mesh of the grid on their journey from the filament to the plate will be repelled. Similarly a small positive charge applied to a fine mesh will tend to accelerate the velocity of the electrons.

In case of a very coarse mesh grid, the electrons can pass through the apertures in the grid without coming in so close to the charge on it and a relatively high potential will be required on the grid to control the electron stream, or in other words, the current flowing in the plate circuit. Referring to Fig. VIII, O-G, is the current that will flow in the plate circuit when there is no potential applied to the grid. Suppose a positive potential as O-I is applied to the grid. The corresponding plate circuit current will be I-D or B-D, more than it was when the grid had no potential applied to it.

A negative potential of O-H is now applied to the grid where O-H is equal in value to O-I, but opposite in sign. The application of the negative potential when applied to the grid will cause the plate current to be reduced to a value I-F or A-C, less than it was when there was no potential applied to the grid. So it is seen that a negative potential when applied to the grid does not reduce the plate circuit current as much as the same positive potential increased the plate circuit current. This irregular conductivity of the tube is made use of when the tube is used as a detector or rectifier of radio signals.

The incoming radio signal is a high frequency alternating current. Let us apply an alternating difference of potential whose maximum positive value is equal to O-I and whose maximum negative value is equal to O-II, to the grid of the three-electrode tube whose characteristic curve is the same as that shown in Fig. VIII. In Fig. IX is shown the alternating difference of potential applied to the grid. Through the first quarter of a cycle, from zero at J to a maximum negative value at K, equal to O-II, the plate circuit current will vary from O-G, its value at P when no grid potential is applied to a value at Q equal to H-C.

During the next quarter of a cycle the grid potential changes from a maximum negative value at K to zero at L. The corresponding values of plate circuit current are shown by the portion of the plate current curve Q-R.

During the next or third quarter of a cycle the applied grid potential increases from zero at L to a maximum positive value at M, equal to O-I, and causes the plate circuit to increase from I-B, its value when the plate potential is zero, to I-D, an increase in plate current equal to B-D.

During the remaining fourth quarter of a cycle as the applied grid potential varies from a maximum positive value at M to zero at N, the plate circuit current varies from a value S to T.

Assuming that the characteristic curve as shown in Fig. VIII and Fig. IX was with a potential of 40 volts on the plate, then, if the plate current is to be reduced to zero by a variation of plate voltage—with no potential applied to the grid—the plate voltage must be reduced to zero or a reduction of 40 volts must be made.

If the 40 volts is maintained on the plate and a negative potential of E-O is applied to the grid, it will reduce the current to zero.

Suppose O-E represents five volts. It can be seen then that a change of five volts in grid potential will accomplish the same result that 40 volts will in the plate circuit. The ratio of the voltage change in the plate circuit is called the factor of the tube and is denoted by the letter "K."

In the tube just discussed the amplification factor would be 40 divided by five, or eight. The amplification factor of the tubes available for amateur use at present is usually between 4 and 10. The amplification factor is a function of the dimensions and relative positions of the elements in the tube.

An incoming radio frequency alternating current applied to the grid of a three-electrode vacuum tube is not only rectified but the variation in the plate is multiplied by "K," the amplification factor of the tube. This makes the three-electrode vacuum the most sensitive detector available.

In actual tubes the point "G" on the characteristic curves as shown in Fig. VIII and Fig. IX may not fall on such a point of the curve that symmetrical changes in grid potential will cause a symmetrical change in plate current, starting with zero potential on the grid.

It then becomes necessary to apply a constant potential to the grid by means of a battery in the grid circuit, called the "G" battery, to maintain the grid at such a point on the characteristic curve that symmetrical changes in grid potential will cause the maximum symmetrical current to flow in the plate circuit.

Big Ships' Radio.

The radio equipment of the ships Paris and Lafayette is described in a recent issue of Radioelectricity. On both steamers a five-kilowatt tube transmitter has been installed with a wave range of between 2,000 and 9,000 meters. A five-kilowatt motor-generator set is used to produce the plate-high tension for four rectifying and four oscillatory tubes, and the low voltage current for the heating of the filament of these tubes. Both vessels are equipped with a radio range-finder, or "radio goniometer," which, reduced to plain English, means a radio compass. A distance of 3,400 kilometers has been covered safely by messages sent from the transmitter of the Paris.

Radio for Animal Training.

Experiments with the radiophone as an aid in animal training are to be made at the Hippodrome, New York city, by George Power, trainer of the elephants, to determine whether it will be possible for his big pets at some future date to execute his orders on the stage while the trainer himself is absent.

Professor Bell a Radio Fan.

Finding the telephone, his own invention, a source of annoyance to him, Alexander Graham Bell had it removed from his home. With the radiophone there is a difference, it seems, for Mr. Bell, now seventy-five years old, is said never to tire of "listening in" and experimenting with the new device. There are few more ardent enthusiasts, declare his friends.

RADIO DON'TS

Don't expect the circuit to oscillate with equal strength over a great range if you tune the grid circuit with capacity alone. Keep the ratio of L to C as near constant as possible while tuning.

Don't expect a circuit to oscillate if the natural period of the tickler circuit is equal to the natural period of the grid circuit.

Don't place the tickler or plate variometer tight against the grid coil or a change in the plate circuit will detune the grid circuit.

Don't expect high impedance tubes to oscillate freely in a circuit designed for low impedance tubes.

Don't discard a regenerative receiver until you have tried more than one detector tube.

Don't forget that a soft gas tube is the best detector, and that a hard tube is the best oscillator.

Don't treat inductance coils with shellac or any other varnish or compound that will absorb moisture.
